

It was Plein Air!!

Saturday, April 13, 2024

With weather always a question, there were high winds, cool temperatures, warm spots and fond memories from Maine to Florida.

Here are the plein air paintings.

Thank you to the artists for sharing!

Plein Air

April 2024

Since I hadn't painted plein air for some time, I was uncertain about having the right materials and was aware that I could easily lose them to the strong winds that day. So I painted a view outside my studio, a quick one hour sketch of a cherry tree, I think. I used Mi-Teintes grey paper and a mix of soft pastels. It was fun to paint "fast and loose"!

Thank so much for the opportunity.

Plein Air Tree
16 x 12

Diane de Grasse
Black Mountain, NC

Plein Air April 2024

Since I am in Maine and I couldn't get to the Red house in Black Mountain for the plein air, and it was rather cold here, I just painted something indoors.

This is a painting that I had started last January, while in Maine, but I wasn't totally pleased with it. I adjusted the format to make longer rather than a standard size. I added a few specific touches and some glazes of light around the path. I am happier with it now.

This spot is a memory now since this path was destroyed by winter coastal storms in Maine.

"Popham Path". 10"x18".
Various pastels on PastelMat.

Terrilynn Dubreuil
Asheville, NC

Plein Air
April 2024

I love being outdoors and painting with my art buddies. This pathway is in Boyd Nature Reserve in St. Petersburg, FL. A truly magical place.

Have a strictly artful day,

Pat

“Pathway”

Pat Fenda
Tampa, FL

