

It's Plein Air!!

With one stalwart soul who braved the weather and submitted their work,

Enjoy!

My plein air is in Maine. I have been going to a beach nearby often - the one where my "little tree" resides. I have done sketching from inside the car - since it's still "winter" here, beyond what is "normal" - and I have sat a couple times on rocks to sketch the beach.

My first sketch here is a day that was very heartbreaking for me and I took time with the sketch .. it helped to heal my heart. I went back a couple days later and created a watercolor from the same spot. My painting is one I did sitting on the rock .. a grey overcast day but just warm enough to sit outside the car and get most of the sketch finished. I added a few touches and the figures when back in my portable studio.
